Dr. Dianne Birnbaumer is residency trained in both Internal Medicine and Emergency Medicine and is Emeritus Professor of Medicine at the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA. Currently a Senior Clinical Educator in the Department of Emergency Medicine at Harbor-UCLA Medical Center, Dr. Birnbaumer was Associate Program Director there for nearly 20 years. Dr. Birnbaumer has presented over 2,000 lectures locally, nationally and internationally on clinical and educational topics, and has a particular interest in teaching the teachers. She has received several national awards, including the Outstanding Speaker of the Year and the Outstanding Contribution to Education Awards for the American College of Emergency Physicians.

Andrew Herring, MD is an emergency medicine physician attending at Highland Hospital in Oakland, CA. After medical school at Harvard, he completed residency and ultrasound fellowship at Highland.

Dr. Kevin Kaucher is an Emergency Medicine Clinical Pharmacy Specialist and Emergency Medicine Residency Program Director at Denver

Health Medical Center. Dr. Kaucher is actively involved in both didactic and clinical education of pharmacy students and emergency medicine residents for the Denver Health Emergency Medicine Residency Program, the University of Colorado and Regis University Schools of Pharmacy. His research interests include the management of substance use disorders in the emergency department including alcohol withdrawal and opioid use. Dr. Kaucher has lectured regionally and nationally on the topics including naloxone distribution and MAT referral from the ED.

Christina Miller, MD, FACEP, is dual board-certified in Emergency and Integrative Medicine. She completed her emergency medicine residency and chief residency at Denver Health, worked for 10 years in the ED, and served as president of Colorado ACEP. Due to an unexpected chronic illness, she radically changed her practice to Lifestyle Medicine in 2013. She studied nutritional science, Integrative Medicine, and Functional Medicine, and now focuses exclusively on nutrition and lifestyle changes to get to the root cause of illness, while focusing on health, well-being and longevity. She is founder of Eat and Live Healthfully!
